

HEALTHCARE ROUNDTABLE

Juice Hosts Healthcare Roundtable on Employee Engagement

As part of our commitment to inform, inspire and engage the healthcare community, Juice hosted a complimentary healthcare roundtable discussion on June 6 in Mississauga.

Attending the event were 35 senior professionals from varying disciplines within Ontario hospitals, LHINs and CCACs.

Juice senior partner, Brady Wilson, facilitated a discussion on “Fostering Employee Engagement in the Workplace.” Touching upon research found in his newest whitepaper, The Five Drivers of Engagement, Wilson discussed effective strategies for handling engagement pressures that are particularly significant in the healthcare sector.

Andrew Williams, CEO of Huron Perth Healthcare Alliance (HPHA), was our guest speaker and discussed the engagement journey his organization has taken in partnership with Juice.

The event provided the opportunity for attendees to discuss the healthcare environment with a particular focus on employee engagement challenges and best practices. The number of attendees who took time from their busy schedules to learn, reflect and share on the topic of employee engagement is proof of the importance of the issue to the healthcare community.

Next Roundtable in August

Based on continuing requests, Juice is hosting a second healthcare roundtable on Employee Engagement in August. Shirlee Sharkey, CEO of St. Elizabeth Health Care, will be our guest speaker.

The Juice team is delighted to offer these roundtable opportunities to healthcare professionals—giving back to those who have given so much to us.
